

PORT OF OAKLAND

The Port of Oakland occupies over 20 miles on the mainland shore of San Francisco Bay, one of the finest natural harbors in the world. The port is a world-class international cargo transportation and distribution hub—a vital link between producers and consumers all over the world.

Oakland offers the best combination of efficiency, service, infrastructure, network, and transit time to give exporters and importers a strong competitive advantage. Agricultural commodities, raw materials, and manufacturing and technology products move to Asia with the fastest West Coast transit times. First-call vessel services speed finished goods from Asia to the Port of Oakland, which serves a megaregion of more than 14 million consumers. Its ready infrastructure and rail network moves intermodal cargo to and from major markets in the Midwest and East Coast.

Port of Oakland Facts

- 3rd-largest container port on the U.S. West Coast; 5th-busiest in the U.S.
- 7 modern, efficient and congestion-free terminals
- 771 acres of terminal facilities with 18 deepwater berths
- 36 cranes, 30 with post- or super post-Panamax capability
- 2+ million TEU annual throughput
- More than 28 ocean carriers serving port regularly; over 2,000 vessel calls annually
- U.S. $41+ billion in traded goods transit through Oakland each year

The Oakland Advantage

Location

- Situated at the midpoint of the U.S. West Coast, with a mega-market of more than eight million consumers, it's only 4-10 hours away from major population centers in Seattle, Portland, Salt Lake City, Reno, Los Angeles, Las Vegas and Phoenix.
- Intermodal rail and truck connections reach more than 50% of the U.S. population within two days.

Infrastructure

- All shipping channels and 90% of berths dredged to -50 feet, accommodating vessels up to 13,000 TEU capacity.
- Intermodal rail with doublestack trains serve the port and link it to major markets in North America via two Class 1 railroads: Burlington Northern Santa Fe and Union Pacific. Four interstate freeways provide connections throughout California and the West.

Service

- It's the only port on the U.S. West Coast in which all of the top 20 ocean carriers have regular service.
- Unlike some other U.S. West Coast ports, the Port of Oakland has no environmental, congestion or infrastructure fees in effect.
